cold music has a runtime of around 24 min. The basic material is made up of 6 2-bar modules, where upward stems are to be played by the right hand and downward by the left. You can play these modules in what order you like (as long as it's good), but I've written out what I would do on the page.

Pedal:

Before playing any modules, the performer must hold down the sustain pedal for a few seconds. After the last module, they must keep it held down for more seconds.
